

Welcome

A Little Background

I have been involved with computer user groups for over 20 years.

I use freeware and portable applications extensively, so I thought the subject might be of interest to BRCS members, and started this SIG.

My Definition of Freeware

There is a lot of debate, as to what constitutes freeware, so I will clarify what freeware is to me:

Freeware is any software for which I do not have to pay for use. This includes shareware and donation-ware that might have additional features that are only available if you pay for them, also included are web applications and browser extensions which only require registration.

Tonight

I will be talking about eReaders, Calibre, and sources of free eBooks.

Links shown tonight are available for download in the eReader-eBook folder, at:

<http://box.net/brcs-freewaresig>

Files for future sessions will be available at the same link, in their own folder.

